

IOM RESOURCES AND MATERIALS ON LABOUR EXPLOITATION

Since the 1990s IOM works in the field of Counter-Trafficking. The primary aims are to prevent trafficking in persons, promote safe migration, business and human rights, protect victims, and provide safe reintegration including return options to countries of origin. This document presents a non-exhaustive list of IOM resources on labour exploitation including counter-trafficking. We hope the below information is useful in your respective areas of work.

LUPTA Project

In Romania, the Leading a United Pathway to anti-Trafficking Action \(LUPTA\) project was developed by IOM in coordination with the US Embassy in Romania and the National Agency Against Trafficking in Persons (ANITP). The project aims to improve cooperation and coordination between key actors involved in investigations, prosecution, support, and service provision of victims of trafficking through the establishment of multidisciplinary, specialised task forces; strengthen their collaboration and capacity to utilize interdisciplinary expertise; and to improve victim protection, outcomes and participation during criminal investigations and proceedings.

A.L.T. Illegal Recruitment: Promoting regular and safe employment of migrant workers in Italy

The objective of the project is to reduce migrants' exposure to labour exploitation, by improving the effectiveness and efficiency of labour inspections and promoting coherent interventions among relevant authorities, coordinated by the National Labour Inspectorate.

IOM supports the National Labour Inspectorate by strengthening the capacity of local Labour Inspectorates to identify potential and actual victims of labour exploitation and refer them to relevant authorities and services, as well as to raise migrant workers' awareness of labour rights and available fair recruitment mechanisms. The project enhances the capacity of the Interregional Labour Inspectorates of Milan, Venice and Rome to regularly monitor the socio-economic conditions of potential and identified victims of labour exploitation.
